

COVID-19 Testing Locations with results in 72 hours or less for Travel

Locations Finder: www.testfortravel.com

Some current Airport testing centers available within the U.S. include:

- Tampa International Airport: This testing center is meant for passengers traveling to and from Tampa International Airport (TPA) so bring proof of travel. PCR test results come back in about 48 hours and cost $150.
- Oakland International Airport: There are two testing centers at OAK, one in the airport and a drive-up location. Only passengers heading to Hawaii are encouraged to use this, though technically any passenger can book the drive-up location. Appointments are required and there is no out-of-pocket fee.
- Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport: Testing is open to all at MSP and done with saliva. This is free for Minnesota residents and $94 for others. Test results are back within 24 to 48 hours. Appointments are accepted but not always required.
- Anchorage International Airport: Testing at ANC is free for Alaska residents and $250 to others. All nonresidents that cannot provide proof of testing prior to travel will be required to test upon arrival.
- Burlington International Airport: Testing is open to all at Vermont's BTV airport Monday through Friday with appointments recommended and results available in 36 to 48 hours. Without insurance, the test is $175.
- Bradley International Airport: Open seven days per week, if the test is not covered by the passenger's insurer, tests are still available for $125 each. Results will most likely be available within 72 hours of testing, however, it can take longer. Testing is only available to passengers traveling through Connecticut's Bradley Airport (BDL) on the day of their flight and you can preregister before arriving at the testing site.
- New York-LaGuardia: PCR testing is free with no appointments necessary in LGA's Terminal B parking garage with results delivered by phone within 48 hours. However, this won't be very useful for travel verification purposes since the results are verbal.
- XpresCheck: XpresCheck is currently open to passengers in Newark-EWR and New York-JFK, with Boston (BOS) soon to come online for passenger use. PCR tests are available by appointment or potentially via walk-up and insurance is accepted or costs $75. Turnaround time is two to three days.
- Dallas – Fort Worth International Airport: Those traveling on American Airlines to Hawaii can get a rapid PCR test at DFW on the day of travel for $249 with results available in about 15 minutes. Travelers can also visit designated CareNow urgent care locations in the area for $150 testing.
- San Francisco International Airport: Those San Francisco-based travelers flying on United Airlines to Hawaii can get a rapid PCR test at SFO on the day of travel with an appointment for $250. There is a drive-up option near the airport that can be booked a couple of days in advance of travel for $105.
